

Read more on our community contributions in our latest report to stakeholders available on www.rossing.com / www.rossingfoundation.com

Our focus is on supporting the community

Rössing Uranium donated personal protective clothing to the Swakopmund state hospital that would safeguard personnel involved in dealing with the current impact of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Photo: A Swakopmund state hospital operator with some of the personal protective clothing items donated by Rössing Uranium.

Rössing Uranium donated N$200 000 to the Government of Namibia for the fight against the coronavirus

Rössing Uranium made available a N$4.5 million oxygen generator plant at the new Covid-19 isolation facility

With the ceremonial handover of an oxygen generator plant for the new Covid-19 isolation facility at Walvis Bay as a responsible employer, Rössing Uranium supports the Namibian Government's initiatives to contain the spread of the Covid-19 pandemic in Namibia.
Photo: The inside of the N$4.5 million oxygen generator plant made available by Rössing Uranium to the new isolation facility in Walvis Bay.